the Cambridge ladies who live in furnished souls are unbeautiful and have comfortable minds (also, with the church's protestant blessings daughters, unscented shapeless spirited) they believe in Christ and Longfellow, both dead, are invariably interested in so many things — at the present writing now still finds delighted fingers knitting for the is it Poles?
perhaps. While permanent faces coyly bandy scandal of Mrs. N. and Professor D.
. . . the Cambridge ladies do not care, above Cambridge if sometimes in its box of sky lavender and cornerless, the moon rattles like a fragment of angry candy built in 1929 after a fire destroyed the original "old main," old main memorial is the symbol of westminster's academic life. the building houses the administrative and admissions offices, as well as the departments of education and psychology, economics and business administration, religion and philosophy, and english. the senior terrace is the embodiment of westminster's traditional deference to seniors and serves as an attractive backdrop to the graduation exercises. the bells in old main tower summon students to classes and declare numerous conquests of titan athletes.

the arts and sciences complex, now in its second full year of use, has become the main academic center of the campus. its facilities were selected as the best in the east by a government fine arts project. the will w. orr auditorium seats eighteen hundred for convocations and big name entertainment. beeghly theater offers the westminster dramatics student full professional facilities which have been used to give "little theater" productions added dimension. the classroom section houses the departments of history, sociology, political science, mathematics, art, languages, and speech. the music department is spaciously housed in the conservatory of music. other special facilities include: an art gallery, art and language labs, and the campus radio station, wkps-fm.

the mc gill memorial library is the most popular location on campus when the students wish to stage a dress code protest demonstration. the library, however, has its more mundane duties: housing westminster's one-hundred twenty thousand hard bound volumes and providing a quiet place for reading or relaxing. the children's reading room, located on the lower level, is much-used by town youngsters and future teachers. the faculty lounge provides comfortable facilities for both faculty and student meetings. a typing room adds a much needed facility to the study complex. a board room on the third floor is used by the trustees who meet there in air-conditioned comfort.

westminster's sciencc complex is divided into three parts: the thompson science hall, clark chemical laboratory, and freeman science hall. in these three buildings scientists majoring in chemistry, physics, or biology experiment with up to date equipment. room 116 serves the entire college as a meeting place for movies and lectures. of special interest is the spitz planetarium with its sixteen foot dome.

all paths eventually lead to the walton-mayne student union building. with its lounge and dining area, pool and ping-pong tables, the "tub" is the perfect place for relaxing between classes, or even cutting classes. the bookstores have a wide selection of books and other materials. the upstairs rooms provide meeting places for many organizations. guest rooms upstairs house chapel speakers and other honored guests of westminster. in addition, the "tub" provides headquarters for argo, holcad, scrawl, ccf, and student government. extensive remodeling will change the interior face of the building and provide greater facilities for "goofing off."

a large part of nearly every person's life at mother fair westminster is spent in the dormitories. shaw, galbreath, ferguson, and browne provide adequate, comfortable, and well guarded (impregnable) facilities for the women of westminster. those with "seniority" are given the option of living in one of the three cottage houses: sewall, minteer, or mc kelvey.

westminster men have the most sumptuous residence in eichenauer hall. carpeted and complete with detective service and a john in every other room, eichenauer full deserves its nickname of westminster's "holiday inn." russell, hillside, and jeffers also provide adequate housing for those men who live on campus.

"old 77" received its unusual name from the fact that the titan's varsity basketball team was victorious in the last seventy seven contests that they played on that floor. today, this building serves westminster as the women's gymnasium. its swimming pool provides the titan swimming team with grossly inadequate facilities.

memorial fieldhouse was built in 1950 to honor westminster's war dead. it is the headquarters for westminster's varsity sports and men's gym classes. its facilities include a basketball court, seating for thirty three hundred, wrestling room, weight room, lockers, golf range, and offices. plans and fund raising for the fieldhouse addition, which would include an olympic-sized pool, are still under way.

in his first year as westminster's president, dr. earland i. carlson received mixed reviews. this was to be expected, naturally, with the scent of change in the air and several groups with differing opinion about the nature of that change. dr. carlson's early pronouncements concerned a very vague dialogue between "athens and jerusalem." the students, the faculty, and that unseen power, the board of trustees, gave their own interpretations to this dialogue. this gave dr. carlson time to get to know the college. a tireless listener, he interviewed concerned persons almost around the clock. from these conversations grew innumerable committees. the committee method seemed to the restless students and faculty to be indecisive, slow, and incapable of meaningful action. it remains to be seen what changes will occur. it was only natural for the third or fourth year student to be piqued with the lack of dramatic change. dr. carlson found the freshmen and sophomores much more willing to serve as committee members. the upper class unrest was not dr. carlson's only problem, but it was the only one of major importance. about the only other unpleasantness that he encountered was the failure of the homecoming microphone.

since september of 1964, the one hundred fourteenth graduating class of westminster college has seen many changes in the college itself. educational facilities were improved with the addition to mc gill library and the building of the classroom wing onto the arts and sciences complex. social life was slightly liberalized during their stay at westminster, as was the tuition fee. this class contributed much to the college's history both in the classroom and on the athletic field. at commencement, edward craxton presented the college with the senior gift -- to be used to build a baseball scoreboard.

prior to its last year at the top of the westminster scale, this year's junior class contributed mightily in leadership – the editorships of argo and holcad, odk and mortar board members, and numerous ifc and pan-hell seats. beauty also was a junior class specialty as rita phillippi reigned as may queen. for class activities, they sponsored a fall dance after the first basketball game and held a christmas bake sale.

sophomores

the sophomores, still remembering their year at the bottom, combined hell week razzing with sympathetic orientation week aid. the cwens and thanes arrived early to guide and direct freshmen and to sponsor a "get acquainted" dance in the tub. with half their college careers over, the class of '70 has proven itself to be ambitious, especially in all-college activities such as the mock convention. for class activities, they sponsored dances when the student government was in poor financial straits.

after the initial period of adjustment — unpacking, tests, hell week — the freshman class proved itself to be a more than usually active contributor to campus activities. their first act was to set up a policy of class representation at the executive meetings. the advisory committees were appointed by the class officers. they sponsored a car wash, a freshman formal, and a spring dance. this year's freshmen were not afraid to speak up this year when student unrest was in vogue. in these students lies the key to westminster's "coming of age" in the next few years of self-study.

be of love(a little) More careful
Than of everything guard her perhaps only

A trifle less (merely beyond how very) closely than Nothing, remember love by frequent anguish(imagine

Her least never with most memory)give entirely each Forever its freedom

(Dare until a flower, understanding sizelessly sunlight Open what thousandth why and discover laughing)

e. e. cummings

westminster's school year began with the traditional freshman and hell weeks. freshmen were acquainted with the college during freshman week as various members of the administration imbued the frosh with westminster's moral and academic standards.
the goals of hell week are to unite the freshmen and to make them familiar with the upperclassmen. this year it was the general consensus that the week fulfilled the objectives, but lacked spirit. as one freshman girl summarized, "after the first two days, hell week had as much fizz as warm soda pop."

for the second year in a row, westminster's homecoming came on a beautifully warm and sunny autumn day. using comic strips as a theme, the homecoming floats and dorm decorations were unusually colorful. alpha sigma phi fraternity and alpha gamma delta sorority won the greek prizes. galbreath hall was judged the best decorated dorm. the game, more than normally spirited since it represented the last in a long series of athletic confrontations between grove city and westminster, was won by the titans 28-13. at halftime the contest winners were announced and the homecoming queen was named. this year margie moore, sigma kappa sorority, reigned over a court of sorority and independent candidates.

the dance of the year was held at youngstown's hotel ohio. music was provided by the "hi-guys" who provided music that both the undergrads and the alumni enjoyed. margie moore, the homecoming queen presided over the dance with her court of ruth akrie, karen wohlgamuth, debbie warner, pat olsen, donna majewski, lynn mallery, and biz ellis. a fine time was had by all until 12:30 when the little cinderellas had to be back in the bosom of their mother fair westminster.

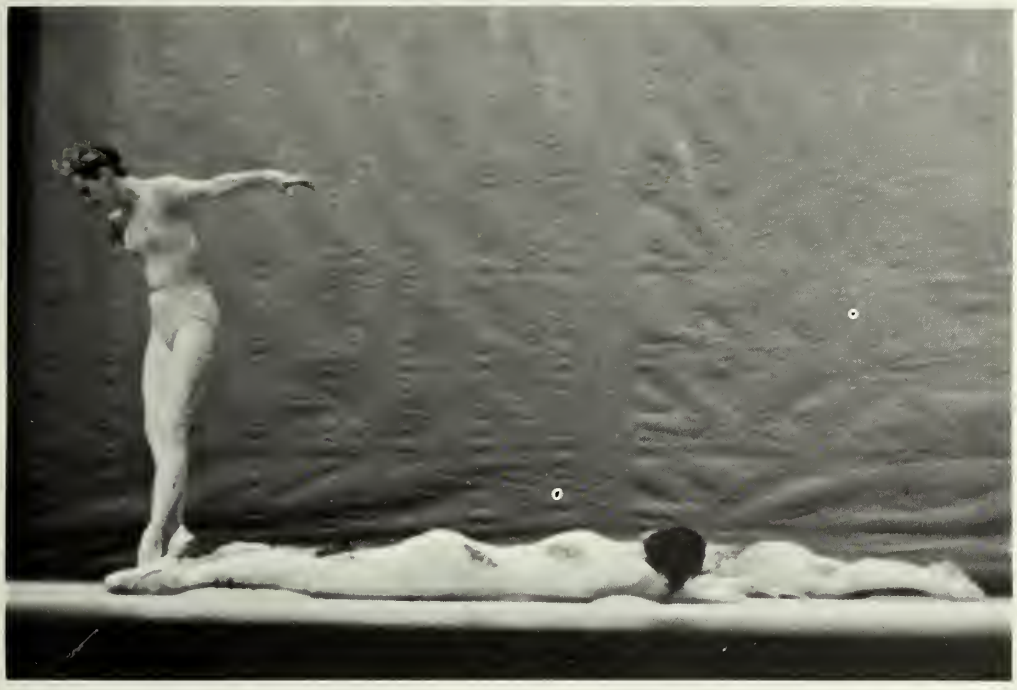

big name entertainment, well attended and un-censored (for a change), was a success that delighted the student government more than anyone as they broke even for the first time since peter, paul, and mary. the ramsey lewis trio, according to time "the hottest jazz group going," was very well received by the student body. they performed all their hits, including the million seller, the in crowd. the spring semester's entertainment, the lettermen, proved to be the best of the "big names" to appear at westminster in several years. as the popular choice of the student body in a poll (one of the rare ones that was listened to), the group sold out will w. orr, an achievement that only three groups can claim.

the artist-lecture series again showed a lack of lecturers. the one that did speak, walter judd — former minnesota congressman and foreign affairs expert, was by far the most controversial that westminster has seen in several years. the highlight of the performing part of the season was the lost in the stars production, with the original broadway cast starring in this adaptation of alan paton's cry, the beloved country. the musical performances, topped by kathryn bacon's piano recital, were adjudged better than usual. in the only poorly received date of the year, the manhattan festival ballet, was even given a bad review in the holcad. nevertheless, it was the first look at ballet for some westminster students, and most of the "first timers" went away impressed.

little theater's second season in the beeghly theater opened with three one acts written by edward albee, the embittered young playwright of who's afraid of virginia wolf. the three plays presented albee's scathing proclamations of society's sins as they were at once universally symbolic, absurdly funny, and tragically true in giving insights into human relationships.

the ironically named american dream more closely resembled an american nightmare. the play dealt with the reversal of parental roles, the freudian destruction of a child and a dear old grandmother who feared being taken away by the "van man." in westminster's production directed by doug vander yacht, sally kolesar starred as mommy, galen girvin as daddy, trudi kalb as grandma, sue enzor as mrs. barker, and bill jesburg as the american dream.

the zoo story, dealing with the sordid reality of lonliness and the inability of one human being to communicate with another, starred douglas scott as peter and don goughler as jerry.

the sandbox, a sequel to the american dream, was a metaphor for a funeral as grandma digs her own grave with a toy shovel.

albee, as a playwright, challenged the westminster audience. his plays are designed to make the audience feel uncomfortable or perplexed or enraged – anything but indifferent and unfeeling. as plays that charged their audience with though and meaning, they were the highlight of a very good season.

westminster's production of bus stop, a romantic comedy by william inge, was directed by dr. william burbick. in writing this play, inge used a popular situation in literature, that of assembling a group of strangers with problems under unavoidable and inescapable circumstances. he deftly uses his strangers to act out a moving commentary on human love. as in most comedies, the basic situation is resolved satisfactorily for everyone. douglas scott as dr. lyman, art miller as bo, sue kolderup as cherie, dan klinedinst as will, gary webster as virgil, and becky leax as grace all gave good performances in this, the second little theater production of the season.

mother courage, written by german playwright bertolt brecht, centers around a german canteen woman and her family during the thirty years war. directed by earl lammel in his first little theater production, the play was extremely well received as a comment about the futility and debauchery of war. trudi kalb played the lead role of mother courage, a portrayal that won for her the best actress of the season award.

the teahouse of the august moon, described by director earl lammel as a light, enjoyable comedy with no profound meaning, starred mark ivancic as sakini, dick wilkinson as captain fishby, lou malandra as colonel purdy, and chris briggs as lotus blossom. if teahouse did have a message aside from being frothy entertainment, it was that with age comes wisdom. very appropriate for a westminster audience.

the gay nineties revue, directed by william burbiek, was a fun show with a cast of over sixty. the performanees ranged from rita phillippi's portrayal of lillian russell to magie shows. a good time was had by all, performers and audienee alike, as the vaudeville — in modern day lingo, variety show — achieved its purpose very well. a new dimension was added to the little theater this year with the ineeption of the 4:30 theater. diverse entertainment performed by interested students was the keynote of the 4:30 season as one aets, opera, and allegories were presented. to the delight of over two hundred students who took time out of their friday afternoons to enjoy this worthwhile experiment in entertainment.

music majors, since their education at westminster is of a professional nature, are required to present a senior recital. this activity caps their four year westminster "career" and demonstrates to others what the performer has accomplished.

this school year saw the inauguration of westminster's tenth president, dr. earland irving carlson. dr. carlson, in his inaugural address, pledged himself to the "civilized nature of education." he reiterated his belief in the dialogue between athens (reason) and jerusalem (faith). dr. paul l. mc kay, president of millikin university, delivered the main address. dr' carlson's former "boss" outlined the requirements, responsibility, and travail of the college president. the ceremonies, with representatives from all over the academic world, were a rare and inspiring sight for the westministerite.

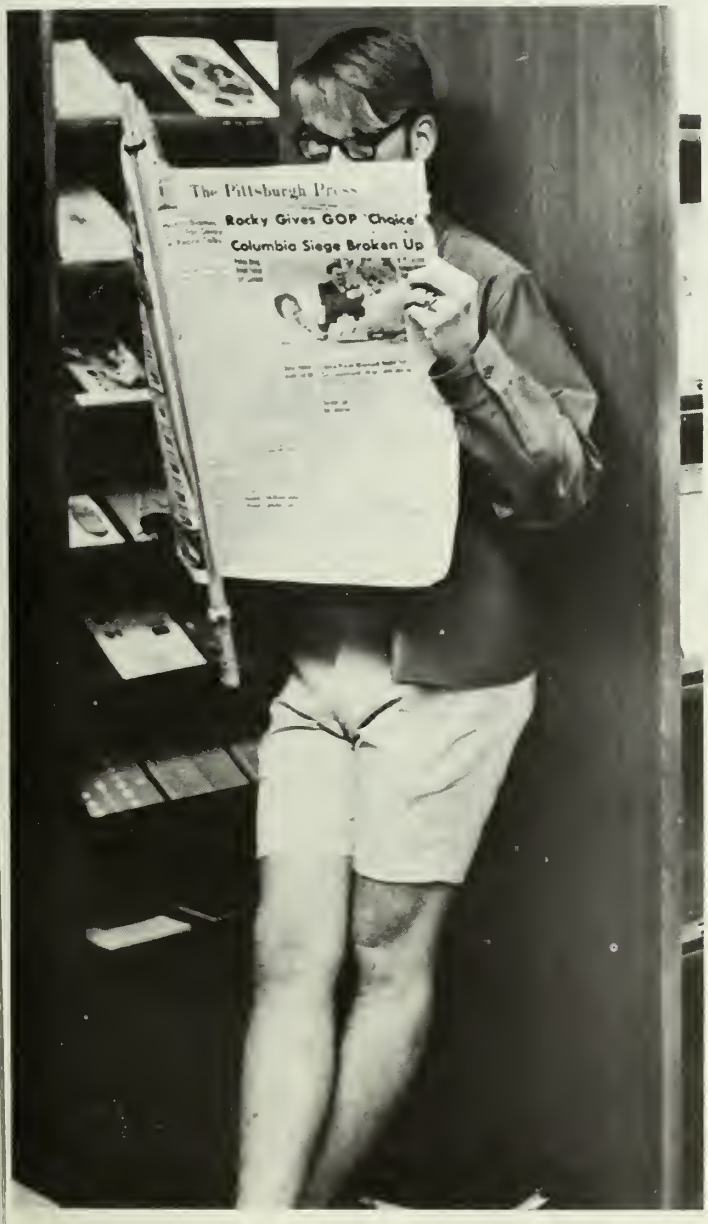

some very untraditional things happened at westminster this year. everyone came to school, for example, expecting student council elections. so what happened? the outmoded student council changed its name in the only visible innovation contained in a new constitution. so westminster had student government elections. spring weekend was different because the mud was frozen instead of goocy. wkp's first year of broadcasting was highlighted by dave walls' marathon dj stint for the benefit of a local family.

the big "happening" of the year was, however, the great dress code controversy. this piece of trivia kept the attention of a student body hungry for change while many other opportunities for more meaningful protest were ignored. in loco parentis was the phrase of the year as the students began to find the weight of the undefined administative thumb more oppressive than usual. all concerned hoped that somewhere in dr. carlson's "dialogue between athens and jerusalem" was contained a clause that pertained to a communications line between the students and the deans. the deans, in the uncomfortable position of having to confront a restless student body and conferenec policy which they do not necessarily agree, were the prineipal targets of student venom. all chances for a meaningful dialogue between the students and the powers that be were lost as a student-faculty poll concerning the dress code was, effectively, ignored by those who dictate the school's policy. paranoia struck. hard. so hard that some students actually got off their apathetic butts and spent an evening in the library. a comfortably attired evening at that. this act, in direct defiance of the stated rules and regulations of westminster college (founded 1852 a.d.), was conveniently ignored by those whose job it is to act as understanding parents. ignored as was the poll. ignored as is, perhaps, the fact that undergraduates do alumni make. but only someday, you know. by then it is hoped that the little boys and girls will have grown up. grown up so that they will not even think of wearing shorts to a library. or maybe even think of going to a library.

near the beginning of the second semester, rush formally began. smokers, sentimental parties, and all night cut sessions filled the little lives of those whose bag is the greek scene. bids came out and the new pledges were welcomed. after the excitement died down, the new greeks eased carefully in their molds as the pledge period saw them become active members of their respective organizations.

the fall edition of siglympics, sponsored by the phipies and favored by good weather this year, was fun for all – especially the spectators. the events were a bit changed this year, but this break with tradition did not shake the stalwart women of westminster as they displayed more enthusiasm than ever. when the dust cleared and the points were added up, the women of zeta tau alpha had won first place honors. they were followed closely by the dz's and the ag's.

westminster's mock convention, sponsored by the political relations club, was the one event which involved virtually the whole college. this year the students voted to synthesize the republican national convention. parades, meetings, campaigning, and much planning went on before george cabot lodge gave the keynote speech that opened the convention. the vietnam plank, written in the dovish style of a mark hatfield, was, after a lengthy floor fight, rewritten rather hawkishly. emotion, mock and otherwise, filled memorial fieldhouse as candidates were put into nomination by their respective managers. on the final night the balloting began at 9:00 and ended at 1:43 a.m. as richard nixon won a fifth ballot victory. art rowbotham, the victorious campaign manager, threw the convention open to nominations for vice-president. charles percy, the illinois senator, managed by john rishel, walked away with the v.p. nod. everyone involved with the convention gained a very rare and memorable experience for a westminster student — that of being involved.

the 1968 graduates of westminster college heard dr. harry g. umbeck, president of knox college, deliver a scathing appraisal of the "conspicuous failure" of the small liberal arts college to keep abreast of the changes in society. he chided the "modern" liberal arts college for failing to fulfill its objective of challenging the established way as it is busy being complacent, preening itself, but ignoring the outside world. "one wonders just how the campus has managed so effectively to anesthetize itself against the impact of a changing social order."
dr. earland i. carlson, a broad grin sweeping his face, led the ovation for dr. umbeck. he then, with the traditional wave of the right hand, conferred over three hundred degrees upon the new graduates.

honoraries

alpha psi omega. to stimulate dramatic work on campus, to reward outstanding student achievement in theater, and to give its members an appreciation and understanding of the theater are the main purposes of this dramatics honorary. membership is determined by points earned for work in little-theater productions. this year the group instituted the 4:30 theater program which presented many entertaining musicals, readings, and plays to the westminster student. naturally the organization is chiefly concerned with the little-theater productions, which this year were very well received. monthly educational and entertaining programs were held in the homes of the advisors. for members who have shown particular interest and achievement, membership in masquers is awarded. this is the senior division of alpha psi omega which each year sponsors the spring awards banquet.

beta beta beta. membership in the alpha sigma chapter of this national biology honorary is open to biology majors with a 3.0 in twelve hours of biology and a 2.75 all-college average. the principal purpose of the organization is to promote scholarship and interest in the field on biology. this year the group presented films related to biology, and, at the meetings, had speakers discuss the more esoteric aspects of the field. to provide incentives for superior scholastic achievement, the honorary gives book awards to outstanding senior and sophomore biology majors.

cwens. this honorary is comprised of the sophomore women who have shown themselves to be outstanding in character, leadership, service, and scholarship during their freshman year. the local chapter of this national group serves westminster by offering a tutorial service for freshmen, and by being usherettes, tour guides, and freshman week helpers. as a group, the cwens sponsor a loan fund and award a scholarship to the "ideal freshman girl."

delta phi alpha. one of the largest, most active honoraries on campus, delta phi alpha, the german honorary, requires an all-college 2.75 average and a 3.0 in two years of german or one year of 300 level german. like the other language honoraries, this group works to promote an interest in the culture as well as the language of the country on which their attention is centered. in order to gain greater understanding of and appreciation for the german language, members attend monthly meetings which are conducted in german. in addition to these meetings, various programs are presented throughout the year. this year delta phi alpha presented a christmas chapel with the other honoraries and went carolling the same evening. this honorary also attended the film "baron von munchhausen" at thiel college and a lecture on bertholt brecht at slippery rock. on another occasion mr. biberich showed the film of his european tour. the year's activities were completed with a dinner at the biberich home given for the new initiates.

eta sigma phi. this classical language honorary requires a 3.0 average after completion of four semesters of study in the classical languages. the organization's purpose is to recognize scholarship and to stimulate interest in the classics. activities this year included the initiation dinner at the home of dr. j. hilton turner and meetings which were sometimes conducted in the classical languages.

kappa delta pi. requirements for membership in this, the delta mu chapter, are a 3.0 all-college and an education major. the members meet monthly in the home of their advisor, dr. clara cockerille in an attempt to gain an insight into the problems and opportunities of the teaching profession. the group this year held a christmas party given in honor of the foreign exchange students and gave gold apples to the senior elementary and secondary education majors with the highest averages in their major field.

kappa mu epsilon. this organization, a national mathematics honorary, was established in 1950 to promote interest in the field of mathematics. student presentations of unique mathematical problems and speakers who discussed professional opportunities in math and computer science highlighted this year's monthly meetings. in april twenty-two students met the requirements of a 3.0 after four semesters of calculus and a 2.75 all-college average and were initiated into the society at the annual banquet. as its award, the honorary presents a book to the sophomore mathematics major with the highest cumulative average.

mortar board. this group is a national honorary for senior women. members are chosen on the basis of a 3.0 all college, leadership and service within the college community. one of mortar board's primary purposes is to promote high academic achievement and thus the group provides a tutorial service and awards a scholarship to an outstanding sophomore woman. junior women with a high academic standing are traditionally honored by a "smarty party" in the fall.

mu delta epsilon. this organization is westminster's own pre-ministerial honorary. membership is open to junior pre-min students who have a 3.0 in theology and a 2.5 all-college average. mu delta epsilon has two purposes: to honor the academic achievements of its members and to encourage its members in the pursuit of ideals suited to the christian ministry. in a year of growth and re-evaluation following re-organization in 1967, the group ratified a new constitution. the fall initiation of twelve new members was highlighted by penetrating dialogue with faculty members. campus seminary day was also successfully initiated in connection with the faculty committee on pre-seminary studies.

mu phi epsilon. this honorary sorority, a professional group, requires a 2.75 all-college and a 3.0 average in music for membership prerequisites. in addition to the academic requirements, the sorority wants musical accomplishment, personality, and character in its prospective members. an award is given annually by the group to the outstanding senior in the group. a party which honored the seniors closed out an active year.

omicron delta kappa. exemplary character, scholarship, leadership, and service to the campus life are but a few of the requirements for membership in odk, the men's national leadership honor society. this spring, as has been the tradition in past years, a faculty committee presented a "man of the year" award to the outstanding man of the senior class. this year the award went to james h. moorhead, who was active in ccf, studied in the honors program in history, and graduated summa cum laude after three years at westminster.

omicron pi delta. this year the organization underwent a re-evaluation and plans to affiliate with national honories in business administration and economics in the coming year. as this year's project, the honorary which requires a 3.0 average in either business or economics and a 2.75 all-college of its members, sold advertising space for the argo. in the annual banquet, held this year at sharon's holiday inn, the members heard vernon smith, superintendent of sawhill tubular products, who discussed the problems with management and career possibilities in this area. the group took several field trips as the guests of youngstown and pittsburgh firms. duquesne university's graduate school of economics hosted several interested members of the honorary. the monthly meetings were highlighted by guest speakers in economics and investments. after this year's advisor, mr. robert dyer left to continue his education, the honorary elected dr. robert milam as its new advisor.

phi alpha theta. this national history honorary has had a chapter on campus for twenty-two years. any student with a 3.0 through twelve hours of history is eligible for membership. phi alpha theta meets monthly to hear speakers and discuss subjects of historical relevance. each spring the honorary presents a book award to the senior history major with the highest cumulative average in his field and gives a dinner to honor the outgoing seniors an the incoming initiates.

phi mu alpha. this sinfonia fraternity of america represents the music profession as a professional fraternity. since its founding in 1898, it has had four purposes: to advance the cause of music in america, to foster mutual brotherhood and welfare of students of music, to develop the truest fraternal spirit among its members, and to encourage loyalty to the alma mater. westminster's chapter, xi psi, was formally installed april 24, 1966.

phi sigma tau. the national philosophy honorary, phi sigma tau, exists at westminster for the encouragement of interest in philosophy and philosophical questions of every nature. the requirement for associate membership is a 4.0 after three hours of philosophy, while a full member must have a 3.0 after six hours of study. throughout the year the honorary invites interesting speakers, such as dr. j. b. rogers discussing his latest book, to the monthly meetings.

phi delta phi. this group is a national french honorary whose purpose is to promote an appreciation of and an affection for the french language and culture. membership requirements for westminster's delta rho chapter, installed in 1966, include completion of a 300 level french course with a cumulative 3.0 in french and a 2.8 all-college. this year some of the groups activities included an initiation dinner at the tavern, a christmas party and french carol sing at the home of the group's advisor, miss alice mac farlane, a twelfth night celebration in the traditional french manner, student talks on various aspects of french literary history, and a demonstration lecture by dr. george clemens on how to make french tapes for language lab. the active year ended with the annual french picnic in may.

pi sigma pi. westminster's academic honorary, until a chapter of phi beta kappa is installed, has as its requirement for membership a 3.4 all-college average. this average, attained after seventy-five hours of study, must be kept if the member is to retain his membership. the group sponsors the spring honors convocation and an annual book drive for the library. this year the convocation was rated a success as the speaker, dr. j. b. rogers, held the audience's attention throughout his address — a rare feat at the hour and one-half convocation.

psi chi. the purpose of this national psychology honorary is to stimulate its members to achieve outstanding scholarship, especially in the field of psychology. each year the group gives an award to the junior psychology major with the highest all-college average. the group also continued in its drive to complete the library's collection of graduate school bulletins, this is an aid to those who would seek to further their education.

scroll. this group is the english honorary society at westminster. it was originated as a club in 1939 to encourage student interest in literature and writing. monthly meetings are held to discuss poetry and short stories. this year, dr. walter slack of the political science department met with the group to discuss the problems of publication. membership is open to all students with a 3.0 average through twelve hours of english. mr. chris brown is the group's advisor.

rho gamma. organized in 1947 as a local business education honorory society, this group strives to stimulate creative interest in the field of business education. majors or minors in the field who achieve a 2.5 all-college and a 3.0 in business subjects may join the group which stresses high scholarship and the desirable qualities of a successful business education worker.

sigma delta pi. for students who are interested in the spanish language and culture, the epsilon tau chapter of this national honorary offers lectures by native spaniards, folk songs, and a christmas party where spanish customs such as the piñata are observed. this year the meetings included mr. daniel van dyke's showing of slides of his mexican trip. to be eligible for the westminster chapter, a spanish student must be a sophomore in spanish with a 3.0 in spanish and a 2.8 all-college.

sigma pi sigma. the activities of this national physics honorary ranged from seminars on esoteric subjects to a physics department picnic. the highlight of the year was a seminar given by dr. arnold honig of syracuse university on ortho- and para-hydrogen. this seminar was sponsored by the national science foundation. a new program to help graduating sigma pi sigma members was initiated this year: the "alumni file" will keep members in touch with the alumni. a record of the graduate's career will be kept and will be available for consultation by anyone wishing information on a particular grad school or industry. the westminster chapter requires a 3.0 in physics and a 2.75 all college of its membership candidates.

tau kappa alpha. this organization is a national forensic honorary. their purpose is to promote interest in public speaking. most of the local chapter's emphasis is placed on debate and oratory. those given membership in tka must have an outstanding two year record in forensics and rank in the top third of their class.

thanes. this group is westminster's sophomore men's honorary. membership is based on scholarship and activities. leadership and other intangibles are also considered in reviewing a candidate for membership. the group, whose academic requirement is a c^+, holds a cake sale to finance their annual award of a scholarship to a deserving freshman. the scholarship criteria are: need plus all the qualities needed for membership in thanes.

who's who. requirements for membership in who's who in american colleges and universities include a c^+ academic average and an active campus life. lists of eligible students are presented to student government. the members of this organization then determine the most deserving of the students.

american chemical society. the student affiliate of this national professional organization is composed of those chemistry majors who find their interest in the field going beyond that material which is available in the classroom. their monthly meetings are open to the public and include films, student discussions, and guest lecturers. the program initiated last year which brings in students from other colleges to discuss their studies and research was a continued success this year. one of the local members, glenn edmunson, discussed his recent patent for a way to render nitro-glycerine safe for transport.

american guild of organists. westminster's branch of ago is composed of students who wish to augment their private organ studies with participation in the many activities of ago. this year the group attended several organ recitals in the area and helped sponsor an organ workshop at the college.

band. the 1967-68 westminster college band is a sixty-five member organization directed by dr. lewis songer. the band livens home football and basketball games with its pre-game and halftime music. in addition to its annual winter and spring concerts, the band presented an inauguration concert in honor of dr. e. i. carlson. this concert was rated as the band's most outstanding performance.

campus christian forum. this organization gives all interested westminster college students opportunities in christian service. the group's purpose, as stated in its constitution is: "to provide an opportunity for spiritual strengthening and witness through on-campus and off-campus service and fellowship; to strive to exemplify the person and spirit of Christ in every aspect of life." the group sponsors service groups on both special and permanent bases. ccf dialogue groups discuss books and topics of current interest, while co-rec nights provide for healthy physical release.

cheerleaders. a willingness to devote long hours to practice is one of the principal prerequisites of a titan cheerleader. generating enthusiasm at titan basketball and football games, these ten girls try to keep student spirit high throughout the entire year. the girls, advised by miss walker, are chosen from all four classes. led this year by captain pat wright, they never quit, not even at waynesburg.

circle k. the circle k club, the newest student organization on campus, is an affiliate of kiwanis international. the circle k club is a service organization for both the college and the community. the westminster chapter just completed its first year of service, yet it has become one of the more active chapters in the state. this year the club held an easter party for the mercer county children's home, helped the local kiwanians in their annual halloween parade, ushered at sunday vespers, and performed many other services for the school and community. since the group is entirely masculine, they need some occasional assistance from the womenfolk. in this area the kappa delta sorority was of great help.

interfraternity council. the purpose of i.f.c. is to unify and co-ordinate the activities of westminster's five national social fraternities. this, along with fostering good relations with the administration, is their goal. i.f.c. meets once a month or whenever necessary. its representatives are made up of three members from each fraternity. i.f.c. put on three dances, co-ordinated fraternity rush and pledging, and sponsored a golf tourney this year.

mermaids. this organization is composed of upperclass women with at least 2.0 averages. membership is determined on a competitive basis, with only the most accomplished swimmers being selected. tryouts are held in october after practice sessions supervised by members of the club. once new members have been chosen practices for the show are begun. around christmas a theme for the show is chosen and ideas for its development are discussed. after semester break, the girls work hard on routines,, costuming, and staging.

m.e.n.c. the music educator's national conference strives to develop the professional growth of its members. westminster's student chapter is primarily for those students who plan to teach music in the public schools. for this reason, the latest developments in music education are presented at the meetings. two of the most important phases of this year's activities were the revision of the organization's constitution and the sponsoring of a christmas party for the students and faculty.

new wilming-ten. ten women who just happen to enjoy singing comprise this group. their purposes are a good time, service, and personal enjoyment. the members of the group are selected on the basis of their voice qualities, blending, and sight-reading abilities. this year the tensome gave their annual christmas chapel and toured the area giving concerts for local organizations.

panhellenic conference. this council-type set up is composed of the president of each social sorority on campus. each of the seven nationals also elects a delegate to sit in on the conference. pan-hel acts as an intermediary between the administration and the sororities. it also makes and enforces the rules for sorority rush and the relationships between greek women and freshmen. the most important purpose of the organization, however, is to develop better inter-sorority relations.

political relations club. this was the big year for the prc. every four years the group, under the advisorship of dr. walter slack, stages a 'mock convention.' this year's was the biggest and bestest yet. spirited political controversy swept the campus. this is the purpose of the political relations club, and this year it was well achieved. during their monthly meetings when the mock convention was not being planned, the group heard many interesting speakers relate their opinions on the sundry political crises of the day.

pre-med society. this society has the aim of familiarizing pre-med students with the personnel and material associated with the field that they plan to enter. programs this year have involved speakers, films, and field trips. all activities, of course, are related to the medical profession.

senate. this is the governing body of westminster's women students. it is composed of representatives from each dorm, sorority, and class. the senate's principal purpose is to supervise the actions of the house council of each women's residence. in addition to this duty, the senate meets each spring in conjunction with the dean of women to review and discuss possible revision of the rules in the student handbook. this is to facilitate proper definition of and consequent compliance with the school's stated policies.

sociology club. this group is composed of students interested not only in sociology, but in related fields. thus the group is open to all students. under the advisorship of dr. roger wolcott, they sponsor programs of interest throughout the year. the club closed its activities at the end of this year with its annual picnic at dr. wolcott's home.

student government. this group's problem was dissolved by some linguistic analyst who changed its name from "student council" to "student government." otherwise not too much was changed. a new constitution was passed, but not before becoming embroiled in controversy with some of the non-apathetic students who though that the new document did nothing to cure the body's chief problem – impotence. big name entertainment was well received for a change and the student government was solvent. (broke even.) dress codes, poorly attended tub dances, and "proper channels" further added to president dave thompson's headaches.

student pennsylvania state education association. the psea has the basic objectives of advancing the cause of education, elevating the quality of teaching, and promoting the welfare of those who teach. this year the group sent representatives to a fall leadership conference and a spring state convention, both held in harrisburg. programs varied in both form and content were presented. the first semester was highlighted by a banquet at the tavern at which mr. stevenson of neshannock high school spoke. the organization culminated the year's activities with the election of new officers and wishes of good luck to the graduating seniors.

titanaires. the titanaires are westminster's precision drill team. this year they were under the direction of barb wallace. the titanaires provided half-time entertainment for football and basketball games. they also marched in the homecoming parade and for parents' day. the twenty-four members are chosen for their marching and dancing abilities, poise, and appearance. their advisor is miss walker.

wkps. this year the college radio station changed its call letters and became a for real f.m. radio station. under the advisorship of mr. stevens, the station blossomed quickly. popular music, classical music, opinion, and news filled the air over mother fair. the most listened to programming of the year was wkps' excellent coverage of the n.a.i.a tournament in kansas city. students filled the 'tub' and listened on the edges of their seats at the game description. wkps, not without pride, is one of the truly student oriented groups on campus.

varsity w. this is the elite group of athletes that have earned the right to wear the varsity 'w' through participation in intercollegiate sports. to become eligible, an athlete must letter twice in one sport, once in two sports, or once in a sport that the athlete has participated in three years. the purpose of the organization is to keep intercollegiate sport in its proper place in education. thus the group encourages high academic standards among its members. each year they sponsor the mvp awards in each sport and give a banquet at the end of each year to recognize the achievements of the season(s) past.

y.w.c.a. the young women's christian association meets twice a month and is open to all women. the purpose of 'y' is to realize a full and creative life through a belief in God. they annually sponsor the big-little sister program as an aid to freshmen. this year book-markers were made for the shenango home. several members went to regional meetings in pittsburgh and washington, d. c.

alpha gamma delta. the women of this social organization began the year's activities by having the winning entry in the annual homecoming float contest. the ag's were well represented in the homecoming queen's court with karen wohlgamuth as their candidate. the traditional halloween tunnel party was followed by a very enjoyable house party with the chi o's. the year, of course, included christmas and spring formals along with the usual philanthropic work done by the sorority. lo ann christy was selected by her sisters to sit in the may court. the year was closed out with a parents' day reception and a sing 'n' swing performance that was praised by all.

chi omega. the members of this sisterhood began their year by entering their "tweety bird" float in the homecoming parade. biz ellis was nominated by her sisters to be in the homecoming court. on homecoming day, the chi o's held a breakfast for parents and alumnae. the activities had no lull, as a house party with the ag's, a pancake breakfast for greek women, a faculty tea, and a christmas formal at the sharon country club filled the remainder of 1967. philanthropic projects included preparing thanksgiving baskets for the needy and packages for the boys in Vietnam. spring brought a very successful rush and a houseparty given by the pledges. spring also saw an easter egg hunt for the faculty children and a picnic for the settlement house children in youngstown. in april the chi o's held their spring formal at the greenville country club. their active year was brought to a close by a parents' day breakfast and dinner and participation in sing 'n' swing with the numbers "supper time" and "happiness is.'

delta zeta. this year was a successful one for the women of delta zeta. fall brought homecoming happiness with a second place trophy for their "peanuts" float. pat olsen was selected by her sisters to run for homecoming queen. the dz's picked up another second place finish in the annual siglympic working a little harder in the winter and spring, the delt zetas were undefeated in the volleyball intramurals and als took first place in the spring weekend competition. the yea included more than athletic events, though, with the donu dunk for all sorority women, several philanthropic project the dz state convention, and, of course, sing 'n' swing. was a long drive for the dz's and their dates, but the sprin formal at the carlton house in pittsburgh highlighted a ver good year.

kappa delta. the women of this social sorority began th year with their annual kickoff dance before the first footba game. at homecoming, the kd's were represented by thei queen candidate, donna majewski. their float was well re ceived, even though it did not carry off one of the top prizes in addition to their spring and christmas formals, the kapp deltas sponsored a patroness' tea and a dessert for the othe sororities. as they do every year, the kd's held a picnic fo the children at the mercer county orphanage and partici pated in sing 'n' swing.

phi mu. preparing for the homecoming festivities kept th phi mu's hopping at the beginning of the first semeste their offering in the homecoming parade, "thumper," urge the titans to "thump 'em down." lynne mallery was he sisters' representative in the queen's court. they entertaine alumnae in their chapter room on homecoming afternoon the phi mu's held their first houseparty of the year in a psychedelic atmosphere in the activity room of the new castle business college. the lake arthur country club wa the setting for an enjoyable winter formal. as a philan thropic project, the women of phi mu acquired a vietnames orphan, hong thi pham, whom they presently suppor through food sales. among their other activities were par ticipation in intramurals and achievement of the highest scho lastic standing among the campus' sororities. second semeste began with rushing and continued with a fashion show fo the other sororities, the spring formal, parents' day, sing 'n swing, and a pledge-sponsored picnic.

sigma kappa. once again as september came the women o sigma kappa swarmed back to their mother fair westminster the sig kap's broke their tradition of second place homecoming floats by not placing at all. margie moore more than com pensated, however, by making the homecoming court her own. the chapter room underwent remodeling this year. at last, in addition to the traditional pizza party, fund-raising spaghetti dinner, and christmas parties for the alumnae and the overlook the sig kap's journeyed to waynesburg for the big game and a reunion with a sister chapter. the new year began with a belated christmas formal, rush, and pledging. for the second year in a row, the sig kaps won the inter-sorority basketball tournament. they were also amply represented at another tourney held in kansas city. sig kaps, along with the rest of the campus, took part in the mock convention. the annual thiel picnic was held at thiel. the year ended with a parents' day dinner and a presentation of a cole porter medley in the sing 'n' swing.

zeta tau alpha. the women of zet tau alpha started the school year off right by placing first in the siglympics. soon afterward they held their fall houseparty and founder's day celebration. debbie warner represented her sisters in the homecoming court; their float was based on a "li'l abner" theme. other fall activities included a halloween party in the mercer children's home and the christmas formal at the sharon holiday inn. zeta week and a christmas party in the chapter room brought the first semester to a close. second semester activities began with rush. the spring houseparty and formal followed. the zeta's held their annual ice cream social for all greek women in april. as one of their philanthropic projects they contributed to support a child in jordan. as the school year came to a close, they participated in the parents' day festivities and gave a buffet luncheon for their parents and alumnae.

alpha sigma phi. the alpha sigs' first act of the new year was to welcome the freshman women to westminster with their annual freshman tea and a serenade outside the womens' dorms. this year saw the phipies win the 'a' league basketball intramurals and also win the scholarship trophy at the fall and spring honors convocations. their entry in the homecoming float contest, "bat-ter 'em titans!," won first prize, and their annual siglympics was the biggest and best ever, this year with good weather conditions. house parties, rush, and formals filled the rest of the year which was ended by sing 'n' swing and a parents' day luncheon.

phi kappa tau. beginning with their traditional tea for freshman women and an open house for freshman men, the members of this social fraternity experienced a busy, active year. they entered the homecoming float contest and held a homecoming reception for parents and alumni. the phi tau's entered a team in every intramural league and finished well in nearly all of them. their annual greased pig contest was its usual rousing success, as was the christmas party held with the kd's. the year was ended with sing 'n' swing and the annual spring picnic at mill creek park.

sigma nu. the snakes are the oldest social fraternity on campus. this year they added one more successful year to their already long list. they entered a float in the homecoming parade and received the freshmen with a tea. alumni and parents were received at a homecoming breakfast. fall house-parties closed out the first semester activities. in addition to rush and pledging, the snakes were busy with their annual volleyball tourney, spring formal, and sing 'n' swing. a parents' day reception closed the year.

sigma phi epsilon. the men of sigma phi epsilon began this year as they begin all years — with a freshman tea. (for freshman women, natch.) homecoming was its traditional success as the eps presented their non-float to the homecoming audience. a dinner was given for the homecoming queen candidates and a luncheon for alumni and parents activities for the year included having at least one team in all intramural leagues. for their efforts, the eps were winners in the football and basketball 'b' leagues. rush, formals, and pledging rounded out a good year for the eps, a year that was ended with an unusual sing 'n' swing performance and a parents' day luncheon.

theta chi. some of the theta chis' activities for the year included a tea for the freshmen women, monthly house parties, christmas and spring formals at sharon's shenango inn, a fraternity smoker and other rush functions. the brothers successfully participated in intramurals of all descriptions. theta chi's homecoming float entry, "roadrunner," won second place in the fraternity division. this year's rush efforts were well rewarded as fifteen men became brothers. several members attended the regional theta chi convention held in toledo, ohio. seven went to miami beach to attend the national convention. for their sing 'n' swing entry, they sang "sheldon, sheldon" and a medley of beer commercials. in may the fraternity bought the garrett estate. next year should be even better as the brothers move into their new house, the fraternity house farthest from the campus.

if november had not come, the westminster titans would have been undefeated. if the monster that ate cleveland had had the little burg founded by mad anthony wayne for a chaser, westminster still would have had the best defensive small college football team in the nation. but november was predestined to be and the monster was satiated with cleveland, all of which resulted in westminster's "dies irae" being spread over two very long saturday afternoons. a play by play account would tell no more than a glance at the last two scores. the carnegie-mellon game was just an upset, but the waynesburg battle was dunkirk without boats. the yellow jackets and the titans were to meet in the game which "time" magazine billed as the clash of the irresistible force and the immovable object. the immovable object must have been kidding. the air above the cow pasture down by the b&o station was filled with waynesburg passes, not many of which fell incomplete. the yellow jackets' ground game also left little to be desired. after the game a titan fan mumbled, "God isn't dead. He plays right half for waynesburg!" that allegation was not disproven that day.

there were other days, however, and good ones at that. the season got off to a rollicking start as harold burry, the reigning ncaa small college coach of the year, started a freshman quarterback and a green defensive backfield against a team that expected to go to the tangerine bowl. if juniata thought the westminster game would be a piece of cake, they got the icing all over their faces as that freshman quarterback ran for three touchdowns and that green defensive backfield throttled juniata's air attack. the loss to westminster was the only one of the year for juniata.

thiel had their only loss of the season handed them by the titans the following saturday. after playing to a scoreless tie the first half, the titans, led by the passing of dave bierbach, scored twice in the third quarter and coasted the rest of the way with ball control, or as westminster affectionately calls it, "burry ball".

geneva had their homecoming ruined by an uncooperative titan squad that broke a scoreless deadlock with twenty-six second-half points. the westminster defense, headed by all-american middle linebacker bob scarazzo, had now only been scored upon once, and that in the closing seconds of a game comfortably won.

bethany fell easily before the titan defense which forced three interceptions and two fumbles, and the titan offense which converted three of these errors into scores. by this time the westminster offense had jelled, with a now experienced bierbach at the helm. paul smargiasso and charlie kurz were running well behind a fine offensive line headed by bill etheredge and doug behn.

the stage was now set for burry's eighteenth consecutive homecoming victory. the opponent was arch-rival grove city, and feelings were bitter because this game marked the termination of athletic relations between the two schools. the grovers eased out to a touchdown lead in the first quarter, but the determined titans broke it open with three second quarter scores, including an electrifying punt return by charlie kurz. "burry ball" made the halftime score the final.

glenville then fell easily victim to the titan machine. after this game it was announced that the westminster titans had the best small-college defensive team in the nation. they now were a nationally ranked team with an unblemished record. they had all-american bob scarazzo, all-state paul smargiasso and charlie kurz. they had all-west penn conference bill samuels, bill etheredge, roger hannigan, craig mcnamara, and glen nylander. they had the best small-college coach in the nation.

they also had november ahead of them.

cross country

led by the one-two punch of mvp tom gregory and senior ed craxton, westminster's closely knit cross country team finished with a fine 7-3 record. particularly evident throughout the season was the outstanding spirit of coach fran webster's squad. the titans notched second place in the west penn conference with a 4-1 record, losing only to waynesburg's champion harriers. the highlight of the season for the titans came in the west penn conference championship meet at latrobe, when tom gregory outdistanced all competitors to capture first place. along with gregory and craxton, letter winners included bruce biggins, rick henderson, doug wilson, and tom armstrong. coach webster is looking for a fine freshman crop to replace seniors craxton, wilson, and armstrong.

i might take a train
i might take a plane
but even if if haf'ta walk i'm goin' just the same . . .

when wilbert harrison, a long forgotten rock 'n' roll star, sang those lyrics over a decade ago, he overlooked one very easy way to get to kansas city: win n. a. i. a. district 18. this, for the second season in a row, the titans did. during their eighth visit to kansas city (more than any other team in the nation) the players did more than stand on the corner of twelfth street and vine with their kansas city babies and their bottles of kansas city wine. they played some basketball, and, at the end of the week, were one of the four teams remaining from a starting field of thirty-two.

the titans, one of the shortest teams in the tourney, but seeded sixth, trailed pasadena state for thirty-seven minutes before mike drespling tied it with a jumper. regaining the ball, westminster went into a two minute thirty second freeze. drespling was set up for the last shot with just seconds left, but he missed. titan fans in the tub and in the second deck at k. c. were sent into ecstasy a split-second later as dave robinson knifed through two pasadena rebounders to tip in the winning bucket and earn mother fair a crack at a monmouth (n. j.) team with a 26-1 record. in a see-saw battle that saw neither team gain an appreciable advantage, monmouth took a one point lead with ten seconds remaining, billy samuels, with the ball inbounded to him, looked futilely for a well defensed drespling. dribbling the ball into the key, samuels forced an opening and arched a soft thirteen footer that dropped perfectly through the net as the buzzer sounded. westminster, with her two hollywood-scripted victories, was now the cinderella team of the tournament. eastern michigan, a formidable foe which had easily disposed of its first two opponents, fell victim to the hottest titan shooting of the season. the fired-up titans, playing like a team that believed in itself, netted a phenomenal 57.1 per cent of its shots, to send themselves into the semi-finals against towering, third-seeded central state of ohio. the ohioans, with an impenetrable zone, toppled the titans by twenty-one points, and went on to defeat fairmont state for the championship the next evening. in the consolation game, the demoralized titans, who felt that they should have come closer the night before, were routed by oshkosh state.

the season had begun many weeks before as coach c. g. "buzz" ridl, aided by frannie webster, fused a well-knit, finely balanced unit of nine men that were all "starters". the titans' strength was on the beach as ridl could call on a hot shooter like "buppy" or strong rebounders like joe yost and dale boyd to come in and change the tempo of a game to suit the titan cause. mike drespling, a second team all-american who was invited to try out for the cincinnati royals after his selection to the all-tourney team in kansas city, led the titans offensively and for his efforts was named the most valuable player in the west penn conference. russ boston, an honorable mention all-american, led the team in rebounds and was second in scoring. these two did not by any means carry the load alone, as six titans were game high scorers. flashy fred mcconnell, floor general and free throw leader, gave the titans an effective freeze and a pattern that broke every press that the titans faced all year. dave robinson and bill samuels were game heroes several times, as was george zepernick, who made his senior year his finest one.

westminster opened with an unimpressive win over slippery rock. their careless play continued against the stronger competition of st. francis and gettysburg resulting in two losses. an encouraging victory over powerful c. c. n. y. gave the titans the impetus they needed to extend their winning streak to five. maryland state, who, after a disputed loss to the titans in the previous year's optimist tournament, had vowed that they would return with a vengeance, did. the titans recovered from the maryland state game over christmas and returned to easily beat wittenburg and pitt.

back home, mother fair entertained the n. i. t. bound duquesne dukes. in one of the most exciting games of the season, westminster led the dukes late in the game behind fabulous shooting before succumbing by a narrow margin. red manning whose highly touted team barely escaped with its reputation intact, likened playing the titans at at westminster to walking into the "valley of death". buoyed up by the narrow loss, the titans took four in a row before walking into duquesne's "valley of death", the civic arena. three more victories followed, including one of westminster's semi-annual annihilations of pitt — a tradition that may end soon because pitt has signed an extremely competent coach for next season.

the titans then dropped a heart-breaking one point overtime loss to st. francis after leading by six with a minute to go. russ boston kept the out-classed titans in the game with the best effort of his career. george zepernick almost personally handed geneva a defeat, and the titans closed the regular season with an easy win over alliance.

westminster's regular season record of 17-6 included a 4-5 record against major college competition; thus the titans had a 13-1 slate with schools of comparable size.

in the district 18 playoff to decide the team to get the trip to kansas city, westminster eased past indiana state university and into the final with edinboro state. edinboro, with a high-powered offense and a student body that couldn't hold its liquor, trailed westminster 26-16 at the half. the titans hung on for the victory and a chance at k. c.

the junior version of the titans played a rough fifteen game schedule that included home and home series' with the university of pittsburgh and duquesne. with the graduation of four varsity regulars, this experience against major college competition will prove invaluable to the "greenies" as they will be expected to look seasoned in a varsity role next year.

coach frannie webster's squad showed up well against small college competition as they swept their first five contests from area teams in convincing fashion. the next few games were even greater mismatches than the Christians and the lions, as the alumni and duquesne decisively downed the jayvees. a loss to geneva, the only one of the season to small college competition, was followed by a trouncing of usually strong amo's esso. the team showed well in two last-second losses to pitt and the buhl club, setting the stage for two easy victories over geneva and hiram.

the highlight of the season came, ironically enough, in a losing cause. the duquesne dukes, who were to win all their games by large margins, were "held" to a ten point victory by the junior titans. in this game the lack of a good, consistent big man — a problem all the season — proved to be a glaring weakness against duquesne's 6' 8" nelson twins. the titans' consistent shooting and excellent floor game kept them in the contest. a few days later the season ended with another narrow loss to the buhl club, but it seemed that several of the jv's would become excellent varsity players.

in their second season of varsity competition, coach ralph bouch's grapplers dropped all six matches. it should be recognized, however, that it takes time to build a successful wrestling program, and more time yet to build a winning tradition that will attract good wrestlers to westminster. even though the team as a whole did not do well, there were some outstanding individual records: john hogue, wrestling in the 145-pound class, went unbeaten, winning all five of his matches. probably the most exciting performer was mvp ernie bodo. bodo's unblemished record in the 177 pound class included four pins. his one loss came while wrestling in the unlimited bracket. against kutztown bodo pinned his opponent spectacularly in the early moments of the first round.
with underclassmen comprising this year's squad entirely, and with several top-flight freshmen expected in the fall, the prospects for next year seem somewhat brighter.

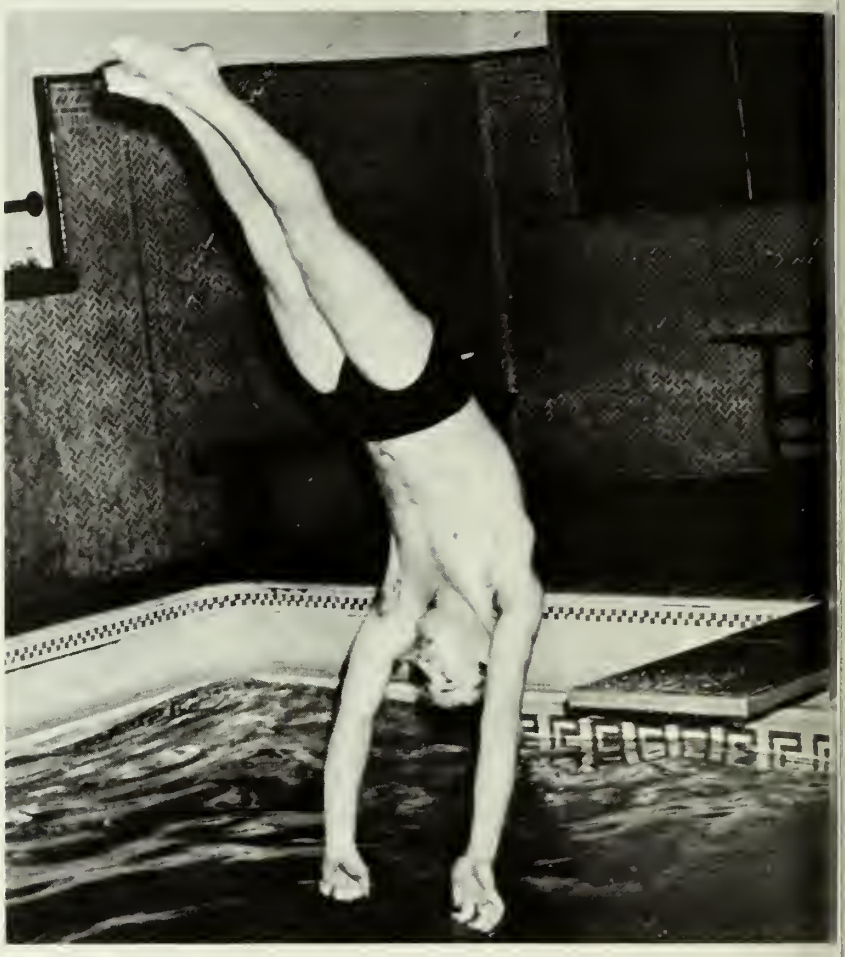

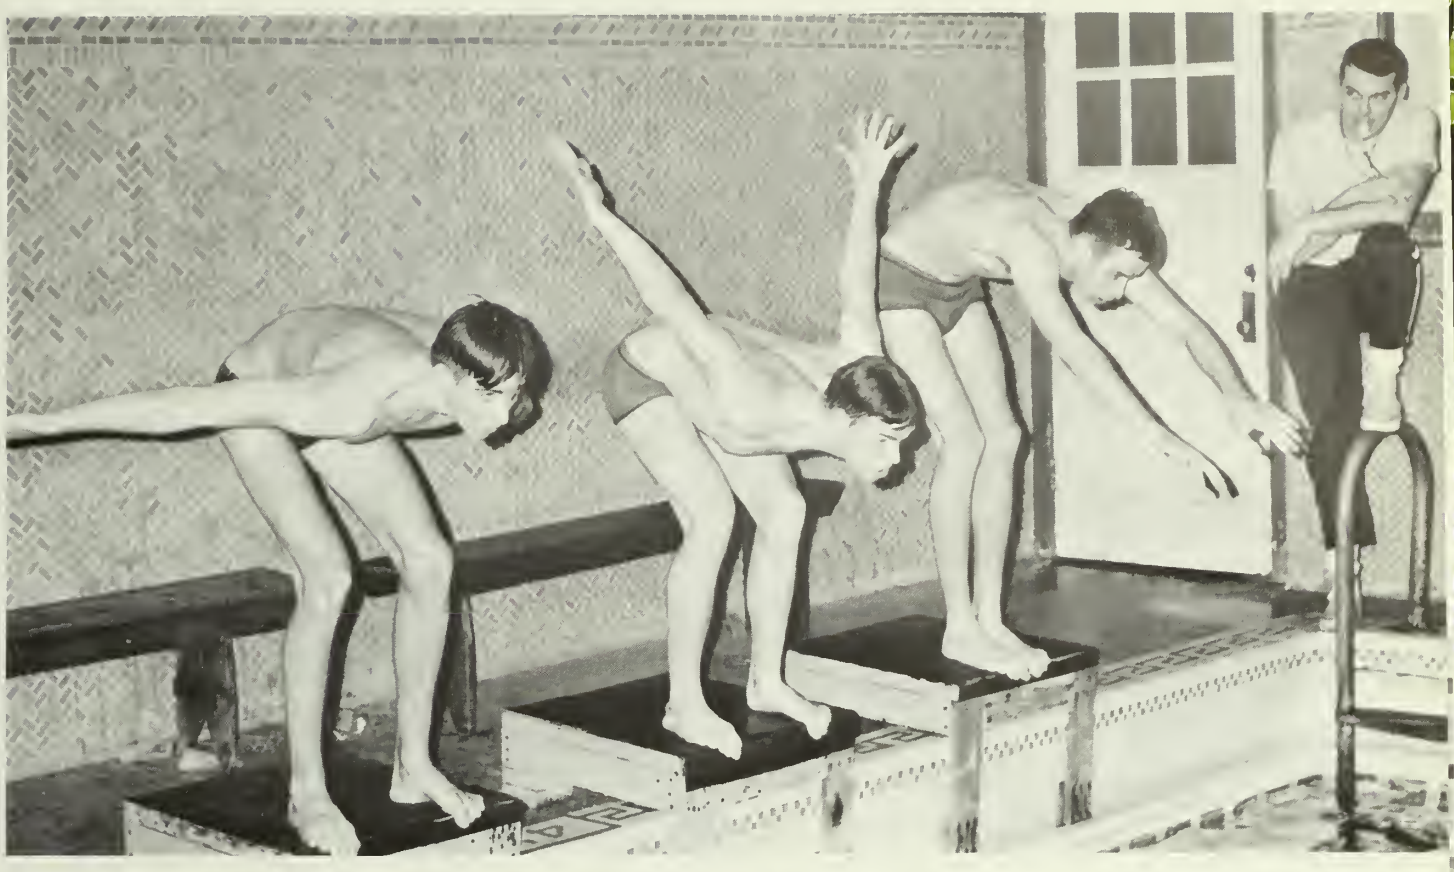

swimming

competing under about the most unfavorable conditions possible, the titan tankers went winless again this season. their record, however, does not reflect the team's desire, perserverence, and hard work. promising freshman and mvp dave fuller had some excellent individual efforts in the freestyle events. the freestyle relay team of dave fuller, warren risk, eric wilkins, and captain tom kepple was undefeated in dual competition, and set a school record in the penn-ohio championships of 3:39.2 in the 400 yard event. with most of the top point-getters returning next year, and another good freshman crop expected, the fortunes of the titan swimming team will certainly improve and at least be on a par with the opposition by the time the new pool is built.

the old adage that records were made to be broken certainly was upheld by this year's titan track team. no less than seven records were broken this season, as westminster powered to one of its best track records in recent years. only a loss to slippery rock kept the titans from an undefeated season; every other opponent fell by sizeable margins.

mvp laroyal wilson, who seems to break the triple jump record each time he jumps, extended the mark to a distance of 44 feet 11 inches. ed craxton, running the hurdles for the first year, broke the 440 yard intermediate record with a time of 58.3 seconds. russ boston leaped 6 feet 5 inches in the high jump to set a new standard. the 440 yard relay team of jim taylor, bob power, jim barron and laroyal wilson now hold the record in that event with a 44.1 time. the field events did not escape the record breaking onslaught. doug behn extended his record in the shot to 46 feet 1 inch, john papworth hurled the discus 140 feet 6¾ inches, and keith conover now holds the longest javelin throw in westminster's history with a toss of 196 feet 2 inches.

although laroyal wilson, who could be counted upon to win four events in each meet, was the big sparkplug in the titan attack, it was balance in all events that gave the titans a more than successful season. with most of the cindermen returning next year, it looks like the titans may shoot for an undefeated season.

1968 proved to be quite a disappointment to the titan baseball team. with many of the key performers back from last year's championship squad, titan players and fans alike were expecting good things. inability to come up with the clutch hit, a sieve-like defense, and a rain-abbreviated schedule all contributed to the titan demise. the season got off to a poor start as mother fair dropped her first four contests. there was no giving up, however, as the titans came back to take five of their next six to even up their record. the most heartbreaking loss of the season came in the next to last game as the titan defense handed n. c. a. a.-bound slippery rock a 1-0 victory. the victim of this was bill harper, who pitched in the form that won him all-american honors the previous season. the titans' last game was a victory against thiel that brought westminster to within one game of the break-even mark. any hopes that the titans harbored of coming up with a .500 season were washed out as the last four games were cancelled because of rain.

leading the titans at the plate was freshman dave bierbach, with a lofty .448 average. dave, who was also an outstanding quarterback on the football team, was the winner of the "most promising freshman" award at the annual all sports banquet. senior bill harper contributed a strong .348 mark that included a dramatic last-inning home run against clarion that won the titans' first game of the year. dave anderson, who was one of the few bright spots defensively, also had an excellent .340 average. paul smargiasso, a .289 hitter, was the leader in home runs with three and rbi's with ten. after these four fine stickmen, the titans' hitting was exceptionally weak. in fact, the team batting average was an anemic .222.

in the pitching department, the only hurler that worked more than fourteen innings was bill harper, who coach ridl said was the finest pitcher that he has ever coached. in his four year career at westminster harper set many records, including a fantastic 23 2/3 consecutive innings of hitless ball. this season bill was the victim of poor support, both offensively and defensively. he struck out more than one batter per inning en route to posting a 3-3 record and a 3.33 e. r. a. the team earned run average was a horrendous 5.51.

with harper, anderson, and smargiasso graduating, the future fortunes of titan baseball do not look good. new coach ron galbreath must look for an outstanding freshman crop if he expects the titans to regain their newly-lost standing atop the west penn conference.

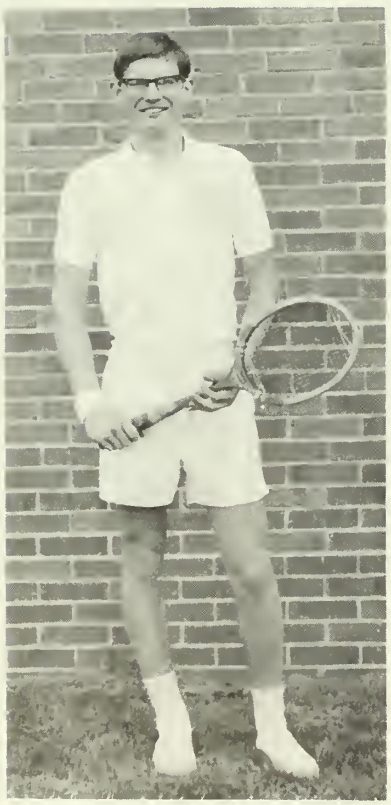

this year's tennis team was led to a tie for the west penn conference title by freshman sensation steve ross. steve, who had a sensational high school record, only dropped one singles match during the entire season, including the southern tour. outside of ross, the rest of the team was inconsistent, but played well in clutch situations.

the season opened with easy victories over conference rivals waynesburg and st. vincent. allegheny proved too strong for the titans who picked the wrong afternoon to have a bad day. westminster then came back to shut out duquesne in their most convincing victory of the year. a loss to tough carnegie-mellon was followed by the low point of the year as the titans were upset by the university of pittsburgh. in the next match, the netters made amends with a thrilling come-from-behind victory over geneva to win a tie for the conference crown. trailing 4-2 after the singles matches, the titans won all three doubles matches to eke out a one point decision.

buoyed by this dramatic win, frannie webster's men went on to take the conference championships. number four man, miles olsen, had the best day of his career as he won the number four singles and teamed with dave thompson to win the doubles. the teams of harrison-ross, and mcgill-beshore also captured doubles victories as the titans made a clean sweep of the doubles competition. steve ross was forced to forfeit his singles final because of an injured leg. not able to effectively cover the full court, he nevertheless gamely combined with bruce harrison for their doubles win.

losing only one senior, dave thompson, the team will have a fine nucleus returning.

tennis

for the fifth time in the last six years dr. burry's linksters went undefeated, mowing down ten opponents in convincing fashion. in those past six years the titans' golf record has been 55-1-1, nothing less than spectacular.
led by mvp skip watt, charles cullison, dan loucks, john rishel, carl bell, and wes freeberg, the golf team displayed the balance necessary for winning. four members of the team took medalist honors at least once during the season. in fact, in the west penn championships number five man carl bell took medalist honors as the titans swamped all opposition. with only captain john rishel graduating and several able backup men eager to win a position on the squad, it looks as if the titans can look forward to another "average" team next year.

(the) argo (68 (nineteen hundred &)) was printed on ninety pound dull enamel in offset lithography. the "college" section was printed on a special paper, "hunter naturel." the body copy, captions, and identifications are caledonia roman with italics. the headlines are hellenica wide and the index is times roman with bold. four color and special effects were used to a greater extent than any previous argo. the tip in division pages on loden stock were an innovation. this year the argo strived to give the year and other yearbook subjects a presentation that was primarily visual. for this reason identifications for group shots, group writeups, etc. were relegated to the general index and organizations index respectively. the poetry of e.e. cummings, copyrighted by the cummings estate and harcort-brace co., was used to give insights, some real — others satirical, into the church-related liberal arts institution attended by the students whose activities fee paid for this book.

this edition of the westminster argo was not the effort of just one individual. dave evans of c.g.a. and george stewart of s.k. smith were eager and willing to help with the production of the book. barbara smith and jim turner worked tirelessly to see that the argo was a well-designed, accurate representation of the 1968 school year. toni jo fox and my wife, alfreda, typed endless copy sheets throughout the last months of their pregnancies. the argostaff, especially photography editors cliff mosher and jim rentz, helped give this book its "soul," the visual effect. abey studio's photographer, neil baldelli, did outstanding work on the groups and homecoming. the list could run right off the page. but before it does, i would like to thank the westminster student for being an interesting subject. it is to him that this book is more or less dedicated.

editor.
